LETTER FROM THE DIRECTOR

2013 was an exceptional year for CRCICA. CRCICA was honored as the Regional Institution of 2013 by the Global Arbitration Review. Out of five other arbitral institutions from Europe, Asia, Latin America and the Arab Gulf, CRCICA was announced as the winner of such prestigious award "in recognition of its great strides in the past year". CRCICA dedicated this award to the soul of Dr. Mohamed Aboul-Enein, CRCICA late Director and the father of its renaissance over nearly 30 years.

More recently, in 2014, CRCICA received another valuable recognition from an independent report mandated by the African Development Bank assessing various arbitration centres across the African continent. The Report considered CRCICA as one of the best arbitration centres across the African Continent that can readily be recommended for use by parties from both the African continent and elsewhere. According to the Report, CRCICA fulfills the Bank’s important requirement for a neutral venue even in cases of commonality of origin between one of the parties to the arbitration (notably if it is the State party) and the State in which the Centre is located, i.e. Egypt.

This Annual Report covers CRCICA’s caseload and activities in 2013-2014. I am particularly proud of the variety of cases (ranging from lease agreements to complex construction and oil and gas contracts), the diversity of the nationalities of the parties and arbitrators as well as the increasing amounts in dispute.

For the first time since its inception in 1979, CRCICA issued Practice Notes determining the Centre’s policies regarding its decisions under the Arbitration Rules in force since 1 March 2011. The Practice Notes have been prepared based on the decisions taken by the Centre's Advisory Committee during its quarterly meetings in 2012 and 2013.

I am also extremely satisfied with CRCICA’s regional and international contributions to the development of both international arbitration and commercial mediation. In 2013-2014, CRCICA was actively promoting both dispute resolution mechanisms in Europe, Asia, North Africa, the USA and the Arab Gulf.

Another salient feature of the reported period are CRCICA’s publications ranging from its well-known Journal of Arab Arbitration to special chapters on arbitration in Egypt and under CRCICA’s auspices published in a major book on Arbitration in Africa and in a reputable World Reporter. CRCICA has also contributed to a special publication on interim measures and continues to publish its awards in Arabic and English.

CRCICA is celebrating its 35th anniversary in 2014. Thanks to the vision of its former leaders, the tireless efforts exerted since its inception in 1979 and the genuine devotion of its staff, CRCICA is currently regarded as one of the best arbitral institutions in the world. This comes to symbolize an accumulated recognition of CRCICA’s regional and international contributions over thirty five years of existence and summons a more successful future that CRCICA vows to achieve.
HONORS AND ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

CRCICA Honored as the Regional Institution of 2013 by the Global Arbitration Review

The Cairo Regional Centre for International Commercial Arbitration won the prestigious GAR GRA Award for the regional institution of 2013. Arbitral institutions in Abu Dhabi, Beijing, Helsinki, São Paulo and Seoul featured in the shortlist. However, according to GAR’s official announcement, "the winner was the Cairo Regional Centre for International Commercial Arbitration, in recognition of its great strides in the past year".

GAR is one of the leading publications of the international arbitration community worldwide. Its annual awards are the most closely watched in the field. The GAR Guide to Regional Arbitration (GRA) award for the regional institution of 2013 is a new category featuring in this year's GAR awards for the first time. CRCICA is pleased to be the first arbitral institution to win it. Prof. Ahmed Sadek El-Kosheri, Chairman of CRCICA Advisory Committee, accepted the award on behalf of CRCICA at GAR's fourth and largest-ever annual awards ceremony held on 12 February 2014 in Paris, France. At the same important event, Prof. El-Kosheri won life time achievement award in recognition of his contributions to the field.

As CRCICA is celebrating its 35th anniversary in 2014, the granting of such a prestigious award is a kind of a decent "well done" message coming just on time to praise a fruitful past that we do cherish and to summon a more successful future that we vow to achieve.

CRCICA is pleased to have dedicated this award to the soul of its late Director and the father of its renaissance over nearly 30 years, Dr. Mohamed Aboul-Enein.
CRCICA: One of the Best Arbitration Centres across the African Continent and Elsewhere, Assessment Report mandated by the African Development Bank, April 2014

The African Development Bank (AFDB) has recently posted on its website the Assessment Report of Arbitration Centres in Côte d'Ivoire, Egypt and Mauritius, which was prepared by Dr Werner Jahnel, Partner, LALIVE as mandated by the AFDB to assess various arbitration centres across the African continent. The Report focuses on the following three centres: La Cour Commune de Justice et d'Arbitrage (CCJA) in Côte d'Ivoire, the Cairo Regional Centre for International Commercial Arbitration (CRCICA) in Egypt, and the Mauritius International Arbitration Centre (LCIA-MIAC) in Mauritius. The purpose of the Report is to assess the arbitration centres against the requirement and standards for "international commercial arbitration" according to the Bank's Rules and Procedures for the Procurement of Goods and Works and to examine, among other issues, "the neutral venue requirement" in each of these centres.

The research methodology of the report was double-staged based on desk review of documents and site visits of some of the Centres involved. The Final Report consolidates the findings of the two stages and provides a final assessment of each centre. The basic features of the report on CRCICA follow:

1. Recognition: CRCICA is one of the best arbitration centres across the African Continent and can readily be recommended for use by parties from both the African continent and elsewhere.
2. Neutrality: CRCICA fulfills the Bank's important requirement for a neutral venue even in cases of commonality of origin between one of the parties to the arbitration (notably if it is the State party) and the State in which the Centre is located, i.e. Egypt.
3. Strengths: the professionalism of the Centre and the suitability of the CRCICA Rules for the conduct of important international arbitration proceedings are noted as significant features of CRCICA.
4. Users' Review: All the practitioners consulted confirmed that the Cairo Centre was functioning very well and that the current political situation in Egypt did not have any impact on the organization of the Centre and its ability to properly administer the arbitral proceedings. This factor, together with the Centre's status as an independent non-profit international organization, enhance public confidence entrusted to the Centre.
5. French version of the CRCICA Rules: The assessor has received no negative feedback regarding the Centre. He has however stressed the importance of having a French version for CRCICA's Arbitration Rules, which is due to be released in September 2014.
6. Assessor's Conclusion: The system at CRCICA as a whole appears to provide the necessary safeguards to guarantee a suitable framework to all parties to the arbitration.

CRCICA reviews the outcome of this report with pride and satisfaction. It is notable that the Centre has recently received similar acknowledgements of neutrality and professionalism from other international financial organizations as well as commercial dispute resolution institutions in the course of their assessment of neutral and appropriate arbitration venues.

CRCICA Director Elected Vice President of ICCA

The International Council for Commercial Arbitration (ICCA) announced new appointments to its Executive Body and Governing Board, ahead of its meeting in Miami in April 2014.

In this context, ICCA elected two vice presidents; Ms. Adriana Braghetta, co-head of arbitration at LO Baptista Schmidt Valois Miranda Ferreira Agel in São Paulo and Dr. Mohamed Abdel Raouf, Director of CRCICA.

Both vice-presidents were selected from ICCA's 40-strong Governing Board, on which they have served since 2012. They replace departing vice presidents Teresa Cheng SC, the chair of the HKIAC, and Russian law professor Alexander Komarov.

Ms. Lise Bosman, Executive Director of ICCA and senior legal counsel at the Permanent Court of Arbitration in The Hague, believes Ms. Braghetta and Dr. Abdel Raouf can bring "fresh perspectives and regional diversity to ICCA's office-holders" (1)

5 new members including two corporate counsels were also elected to the ICCA Governing Board. All new members of the Executive Body and the Governing Board formally took their posts on 6 April at the ICCA Congress in Miami, where the current president, Jan Paulsson, handed over the reins to the president-elect, Dutch arbitrator Albert Jan van den Berg.

The rich variety of the types of disputed contracts referred to CRCICA in 2013 clearly illustrates the importance of arbitration as a means of dispute settlement and confirms the credibility of institutional arbitration under CRCICA's auspices.

According to the statistics of 2013, parties from Saudi Arabia rank on top of the non-Egyptian parties referring their disputes to the Centre, followed by parties from Russia, Spain, Korea, Italy, Germany, UK, Ukraine and the British Virgin Islands.

It should be noted that 2013 witnessed the filing of two mediation cases under the auspices of the Centre one of which was amicably resolved, while the other is still pending. The Centre expects more mediation cases to be filed in 2014, especially after the enactment of the new Egyptian law on mediation.

EVENTS UPDATE:

Comparative Commercial ARBITRATION: Theory and Practice (CCATP)

CRCICA launched “Comparative Commercial Arbitration: Theory and Practice” (CCATP) in 2011, as the first comparative arbitration program in the Arab World with a simultaneous bilateral tutorial methodology that combines Civil Law and Common Law systems. The program is a progressive educational ladder of four successive modules covering the main arbitration stages being the arbitration agreement, the arbitral tribunal, the arbitral proceedings and finally the arbitral award. The program, in its four modules, provides the ideal platform to underpin and support the development of professional experience in arbitration.

CCATP is held in cooperation with the Cairo Branch of the Chartered Institute of Arbitrators (CIArb). Tutors are Dr. Mohamed Abdel Raouf, CRCICA Director, and Dr. Mohamed S. Abdel Wahab, Vice President of the Cairo Branch of the CIArb.

The four modules of the program are being held annually in a total of 13 days through the year. The courses materials unfold a highly comprehensive collection of laws, rules, conventions, arbitral principles, international guidelines and references, extracts from specialized arbitration journals and most recent court judgments which count up to more than 20 awards compiled especially for the program. Decisions and guidelines by eminent international institutions in different jurisdictions were also included as relevant. Most interestingly, the tutorials were based on several mock cases, separately tailored for each module. A sample structure of a final award in an institutional arbitration was also handed to participants as a guidance in their professional practices. Upon completion of the program, in its four modules, participants are eligible to apply for the membership of CRCICA.

Attendees are a mixture of lawyers, judges, engineers, governmental officials and representatives of the different business sectors from Egypt, Syria, Ethiopia, Libya, Morocco, Tunisia, Sudan, Saudi Arabia, United Arab Emirates and Palestine.

During the reported 2013-2014 period, CCATP was held as follows:
First Module: The Arbitration Agreement, 15-17 March 2014

CCATP 2014 round started on 15-17 March 2014 by the First Module: The Arbitration Agreement. The course was a balanced combination of lectures and tutorials. It provided participants with sufficient knowledge of the theory and practice in all the requirements for the writing and understanding of the arbitration agreement.

The didactics of the course are based on an unprecedented collection of documentations including comparative state court decisions on the arbitration agreement of the European (British, French and Swiss), American and Arab (Egyptian, Saudi, Sudanese, Tunisian, Emirati and Syrian) jurisdictions. Also, documents include a unique collection of arbitration agreement related arbitral principles extracted from awards of many international arbitration institutions including CRCICA. The mock case, the educational masterpiece of the course, is tactfully prepared to spot all possible types of the pathological arbitration clauses cited in CRCICA's rich institutional record.

The course was attended by 45 practitioners representing an outstanding variety of business sectors, being petroleum, construction, real estate, investment, banking, air conditioning industry, trading, representatives of national courts and public prosecutors, ministries of justice of Egypt and United Arab Emirates, the League of Arab States and Libyan Commercial attaches in Cairo as well as private lawyers and professionals from Jordan, Saudi Arabia and Egypt.
Second Module: The Arbitral Tribunal, 8-10 June 2014

The Second Module: The Arbitral Tribunal was held on 8-10 June 2014. In this module, "the Arbitral Tribunal" is studied in depth based on a big number of the most recent international court decisions and institutional regulations. Unlike the traditional format of arbitral tribunal programs, which mainly focuses on the composition of tribunals, the program tackled all aspects related to the tribunal including the appointment of arbitrators, the scope and nature of their mission as well as challenge, removal, resignation and replacement of arbitrators. Considerable attention was also given to the rights, obligations and liabilities of arbitrators.

Reference documents included an unprecedented collection of court judgments, published institutional decisions, analytical articles as well as expert commentaries. Participants have had the chance to role play through four mock cases designed to raise and discuss all top issues related to the composition and functioning of the arbitral tribunal, with special emphasis on conflicts of interests including issue conflicts. Thirty practitioners participated in this module in representation of many sectors of businesses and professions.

Modules 3 and 4 of the 2014 are scheduled for September and December.
Third Module: The ARBITRAL PROCEEDINGS, 1-3 September 2013

Beside traditional topics pertaining to the arbitral proceedings such as the commencement and conduct of proceedings, interim measures, suspension and termination of proceedings, the Arbitral Proceedings Module tackled other important aspects of the arbitral proceedings. Examples of these aspects are: the determination of the rules applicable to the arbitral proceedings, the relationship between the selected procedural rules and the mandatory procedural provisions in the law of the place of arbitration as well as basic principles of pleadings before arbitration.

Evidence in Arbitration was tackled intensively including the general rules of evidence, the rules applicable to the taking of evidence, the means of Evidence [writing - witness - experts (The Sachs Protocol) - Inspection], the production of documents [The Redfern Schedule], discovery, tribunal's discretion in weighing the evidence and finally the IBA Rules on the Taking of Evidence in International Arbitration, May 2010). At the end of the module, a mock case was discussed in groups.

Fourth Module: The Arbitral Award, 2-5 December 2013

CCATP fourth module was held from 2 to 5 December 2013. In this module, the "Arbitral Award" was handled in depth as based on most recent court judgments in different jurisdictions. Reference documents included a huge collection of court decisions which were regularly updated, analytic articles, expert commentaries and a model arbitral award. In groups, participants drafted an arbitral award based on the facts of a mock case. With varying professional backgrounds, participants came mainly from Egypt and Saudi Arabia.

2 April 2014: Judicial review of the absence of the award signature by the minority of the arbitral tribunal

On April 2, 2014, Prof. Nader M. Ibrahim, LL.D., Arab Academy for Science Technology and Maritime Transport, delivered a lecture on "Judicial Review of the absence of the award signature by the minority of the arbitral tribunal". Prof. Ibrahim analyzed the actual application of Article 43(1) of the Egyptian Arbitration Act No. 27 of 1994, which requires the majority of the arbitral tribunal to provide the reasons for the absence of award signature by the minority. Based on recent Egyptian Cassation Court decisions (namely that of: Feb. 9, 2010 and June 11, 2012), the lecturer reached the conclusion that the Egyptian Cassation Court follows an attenuated line of interpretation that focuses on the reason underpinning the legal requirement of justifying the minority's refusal to sign the award, and which the Court sums up in the safeguard of the deliberations, leading to actual non-requirement of the said justification as long as deliberations between all members of the Tribunal have taken place. This line of case-law is supportive to arbitration, but is considered too much liberal by the lecturer, who calls upon the courts of Appeal and Cassation to require actual explanation for the absence of the signature by the minority, especially as to whether the minority was given the opportunity to participate in the deliberations, as well as the valid formation of the tribunal at the time of the award making.

The lecture was attended by members of law firms, mass media sector, investment and construction companies, international organizations, state courts, administrative prosecution, industrial corporations and holding companies.
7 May 2014: Applicable Law in Petroleum Arbitrations

On May 7, 2014, in a biographical narrative structure of his lecture entitled "Applicable Law in Petroleum Arbitration", Prof. Dr. Ahmed S. EL KOSHERI, Senior Partner of Kosheri, Rashed and Riad Law Firm and Chairman of CRCICA’s Advisory Committee, shared with the audience his sixty-year record of experiences in tackling petroleum-related arbitrations. In a chronological fashion, the lecture arrayed the significant developments in oil concession law with highlights on the various legal and political circumstances affecting such developments over decades.

He stressed that the dominating feature of international petroleum contracts, in the past, was a lack of balance between the rights and obligations of host states and foreign petroleum companies, which, in many cases, involved an obvious negligence of national law systems. Concession agreements had been unilateral in nature in that they benefited mainly the oil companies and not the oil wealth holder. However, following a number of political changes and OPEC critical decisions, the practical scene started to change striking a relative balance between rights and obligations. One of the most significant model examples, in this concern, was the Government of Kuwait versus Aminoil Company Case after Kuwait's nationalization of the company in 1978 and the termination of its petroleum concession. As a counsel for the Kuwaiti Government, Prof. Dr. El Kosheri succeeded in convincing the tribunal with the legitimacy of the nationalization in the light of international law despite counter-calls to internationalize the case. The award supports the legitimacy of the nationalization against reasonable compensations. According to the lecturer, the legal principles enshrined in the Kuwait/Aminoil award provided a model for many tribunals to follow.

Prof. El Kosheri concluded that petroleum arbitrations still unfold many developments regarding the balance between rights and obligations of big and high tech foreign companies on one hand and national companies of developing countries with lesser acquisitions and abilities on the other.

The seminar scored the highest level of attendance in the monthly Wednesday One Seminars with 120 participants from Law firms, public authorities, universities, national and inter-Arab holding companies, embassies, oil companies, banks, industrial corporations, construction companies and state courts. It was particularly honored by the presence of many of Professor El Kosheri's colleagues, including Professors Georges Abi Saab and Foad Riad.

The lecture was intended to be interactive and focused on practical aspects of doing document production in Cairo. The lecture instigated useful and informative reactions from the floor about the regulation of document production by the parties, under the Egyptian Evidence Law in Civil and Commercial Matters, and under the IBA Rules on the Taking of Evidence. The interaction with the audience that followed extended to broader aspects of arbitration in Egypt and the day-to-day practical experiences of arbitration practitioners, lawyers generally but also practitioners with non-legal backgrounds, which contributed to enriching the discussion.

Participants represented law firms, schools of law, construction and engineering companies, holding companies, industrial corporations, judicial authorities, general prosecutions, state courts, ministries, investment companies, banks, tourism sector, oil and gas corporations, maritime and social insurance companies, trade firms and international organization.
CRCICA Contributions to the Development of International Arbitration and ADR

The International Finance Corporation (IFC) tasked the Centre for Effective Dispute Resolution (CEDR) to prepare a draft for member-centres to discuss and revise as needed.

Also, CRCICA coordinates with the Lebanese Mediation Centre (LMC) to prepare the website of the Forum.

Other founding members of the Forum are: The Investors' Dispute Settlement Center, General Authority for Investment (GAFI), Cairo-Egypt; Euro-Mediterranean Center of Mediation and Arbitration (CEMA), Casablanca, Morocco; Lebanese Mediation Center (LMC) of the Chamber of Commerce, Industry and Agriculture of Beirut and Mount-Lebanon (CCIAB), Beirut-Lebanon; and Tripoli Bar Association, Tripoli, Lebanon.
ISPRAMED releases Report on Independence and Impartiality of Arbitrators

The Institute for the Promotion of Arbitration and Mediation in the Mediterranean (ISPRAMED) has recently released its first Report resulting from the comparative work of practices and rules on arbitration among the members of the Network of the Mediterranean Arbitration Centres, namely:

- Arbitration Court of Morocco (Morocco)
- Cairo Regional Centre for International Arbitration (Egypt)
- Centre for Arbitration, Mediation and Conciliation of Algiers (Algeria)
- Chamber of Arbitration of Milan (Italy)
- Lebanese Arbitration Centre (Lebanon)
- Legal Department of the Istanbul Chamber of Commerce (Turkey)
- Tunis Mediation and Arbitration Centre (Tunisia)

The report focuses on Independence and Impartiality of Arbitrators in the light of the practical experiences of member-centres. This involves five basic principles and a set of common practices representing the standard procedural stance of member-centres in relevant cases.

According to the report, the common institutional practices among the seven centres are based on five cases being; Arbitrator's relationship with the Institution; Arbitrator's relationship with the parties; Arbitrator's relationship with parties' counsels; Arbitrator's relationship with another arbitrator and finally Arbitrator's relationship with the subject matter of the dispute.

Within this context, CRCICA practice profile shows that the most frequent cause for challenging arbitrators is related to the arbitrators' current or previous relationship with the parties or parties' counsels. Challenges based on such causes are upheld by the Tripartite Ad hoc Committees composed from amongst the members of CRCICA Advisory Committee to rule on such challenges.

The Report provides guidance in the decision-making process of institutions dealing with cases which raise doubts as to the arbitrators' independence and impartiality. It also offers guidance to international arbitration users, to know beforehand the positions of the centres on critical issues of arbitration. While being consistent with the international arbitration practice, the principles and practices highlighted in the report are able to accommodate the legal cultural differences in the Mediterranean area.

By and large, this important work, which is a product of intensive collaborative devotion, is meant to be a useful tool in the hands of different stakeholders working in the Mediterranean
Area, as it illustrates the high quality standards followed by the institutions operating in the Area. To view the full Report, please click here.

At a later stage ISPRAMED will publish the Second Report about the Criteria for the selection of arbitrators.

The half-day event took place at the Aida Ballroom, Marriott Hotel, Cairo, Egypt and was attended by more than 60 persons from different backgrounds.

The Seminar was intended to discuss new developments in alternative dispute resolution, analyze and share experiences while focusing on the most important practical issues in mediation, based on what's happening right now in the field.

The Seminar offered to companies an opportunity to discuss mediation which is a rapidly evolving and widely used method for dispute resolution that have proved successful in many jurisdictions. The Seminar was also the forum where companies and their in-house counsels shared best practices and lessons learned in order to stay in control of their claims and disputes.

CRCICA Director was invited to explain the salient features of the new CRCICA Mediation Rules in force since January 2013. He also shared his recent experience as mediator in two mediation cases that were successfully concluded.
Other speakers included Judge Wadie Hana Nashed, the Secretary General of the Committee drafting the mediation law at the Egyptian Ministry of Justice, who tackled the future of mediation in Egypt, while focusing on the salient features of the draft mediation law. A second panel moderated by Dr. Maged Ackad, Managing Partner of Ackad Law Office and CEDR Accredited Mediator, included Dr. Eman Mansour, Director of the Centre for the Settlement of Investment Disputes at the General Authority for Investment and Free Zones (GAFI), who explained the practical experience of her Centre in the settlement of disputes by mediation. IFCAI's Council and General Assembly Meetings, Miami, USA, 6-7 April 2014

In his capacity as Vice-President of the International Federation of Commercial Arbitration Institutions (IFCAI), CRCICA Director attended both the IFCAI Council and the 20th IFCAI General Assembly meetings held in Miami on 6 and 7 April 2014, respectively.

During such meetings, the revision of IFCAI's Constitution was discussed based on a draft amendment submitted by the Nominating Committee composed of Bill Slate, Adrian Winstanley and Jens Bredow as well as the discussions that took place during the last Council meeting held in Paris on 5 December 2013.

The next IFCAI Council meeting is scheduled to take place in November 2014 in Sharm El Sheikh, Egypt on the occasion of the Sharm El-Sheikh V Conference on the role of State courts in arbitration, while the 13th IFCAI Biennial Conference shall take place in Manama, Bahrain in March 2015. The tentative theme of the Conference is legitimacy of international arbitration from an institutional perspective.
ICCA Miami Congress: Legitimacy: Myths, Realities, Challenges, Miami, USA, 6-9 April 2014

The International Council for Commercial Arbitration (ICCA)’s Congress was held in Miami from April 6 to 9, 2014. The program of the Miami Congress focused on legitimacy issues with special emphasis on the myths, realities and challenges.

On 7 April 2014, a panel involving representatives of nine arbitral institutions including CRCICA addressed the following question: Arbitral Institutions Can Do More to Further Legitimacy. True or False? The panel was chaired by Salim Moollan (London) who was assisted by a rapporteur, Belinda McRae (Paris). The Panelists were:

- John Beechey (ICC)
- Brooks Daly (PCA)
- Meg Kinnear (ICSID)
- Richard Naimark (AAA)
- Sundra Rajoo (KLRCA)
- Mohamed Abdel Raouf (CRCICA)
- Frederico José Straube (CAM-CCBC)
- Adrian Winstanley (LCIA)
- Nassib Ziadé (BCDR-AAA)

Based on the answers provided by the above panelists to a questionnaire prepared before the Congress, the panel discussed whether arbitral institutions have been steady stewards of legitimacy in arbitration, or, as more say, are they stagnant and protective of the status quo? In particular, can arbitration be legitimate if the arbitrator selection process is opaque, the quality of awards is variable, and the arbitral process lacks foreseeability? Particularly as the growth in regional institutions continues, are there consistent practices to be encouraged, and others to be eschewed, to promote and preserve legitimacy?

The session was intended to challenge whether institutions are doing enough to ensure the availability of diverse, well-trained arbitrators and to ensure first-rate, timely performance of their duties.
CRCICA Director headed one of the three sub-panels and delivered a speech discussing whether arbitral institutions are enabling a "mafia" and are indifferent to delays and costs. Based on the answers collected from all nine arbitral institutions, he concluded his presentation by stating that the alleged existence of a "mafia" that is enabled by arbitral institutions is clearly a myth and should not be perceived as an institutional issue. He added that, from the perspective of arbitral institutions, the community of arbitrators is rather viewed as an exclusive club, access to which is not really hindered for newcomers. This is demonstrated by relevant efforts exerted by organizations like the ICCA, the IFCAI and the IBA, whose Arbitration Section is becoming its largest one. Droves of highly able younger practitioners are flooding into the field. More women are becoming prominent. Every region has people of fine expertise and growing acceptability in the field. Accordingly, arbitration institutions are not solely responsible for the shortcomings in the system. These problems should not deter them, however, from pursuing every effort to expand the pool of qualified arbitrators and to take the lead in this mission in order to maintain not only the trust of their users, but most importantly the legitimacy of institutional arbitration.
ICCA New York Convention Roadshow, Manama, Bahrain, 3-5 May 2014

The International Council for Commercial Arbitration (ICCA) held the New York Convention Roadshow in Manama, Bahrain from 3 to 5 May, 2014. Bahrain's Judge Yousif Al-Akyabi also steered discussions.

The Roadshow was launched on the evening of 3 May, with speeches from Prof. Ziadé, Prof. Jan Paulsson, former President of the ICCA, Bahrain's Minister of Justice and Foreign Affairs Shaikh Khalid Bin Ali Al-Khalifa, and His Highness Prince Dr Bandar Bin Salman Al-Saud, Advisor to the king Abdulla Bin Abdul Aziz and President of the Saudi Arbitration Group. The launch was attended by the Bahraini Minister of Culture, Shaikha Mai Bint Mohammed Al-Khalifa and Arab ambassadors in Bahrain.

Supported by the Kingdom of Bahrain's Supreme Judicial Council, the BCDR-AAA and the Arab League, the Manama Roadshow brought together judges from the appeal and cassation courts of 13 Arab countries and came up with recommendations to improve the recognition and enforcement of arbitral awards in the Arab World.
A total of 51 judges attended from Bahrain, Dijibouti, Egypt, Jordan, Kuwait, Libya, Lebanon, Mauritania, Morocco, Oman, Palestine, Saudi Arabia and Yemen. Their recommendations included that ICCA and the Bahrain Chamber for Dispute Resolution (BCDR-AAA) should collaborate to launch a website of judgments rendered in Arab countries regarding the recognition and enforcement of foreign arbitral awards; that Arab judges should work towards a unified judicial approach in this area; that legislative bodies in Arab countries should coordinate to remove contradictions in their relevant legal regimes; and that Arab countries that have yet to accede to the convention should do so.

There were also calls for Arabic to be accredited as an official language for international treaties and agreements related to international commerce and international arbitration.

Finally, the delegates pledged to highlight to the international arbitral community the flexible nature of Islamic Shariah Law and its easy integration into commercial contracts and arbitration rules. The complete list of recommendations is available via the following link:

CRCICA contributed to Kluwer Law's "Arbitration in Africa: a practitioner's Guide" with a chapter on Egypt. This unprecedented volume, generally edited by Lise Bosman, assembles for the first time a country-by-country analysis - both practical and insightful - of how arbitration is conducted in 46 African countries, providing essential information about legislative provisions, treaty adherence, and arbitral procedure. Five sections representing the main regions of the continent offer country overviews addressing issues such as the following:

- adherence to the key arbitration conventions;
- the modernity of a State's arbitration legislation and its compatibility with the UNCITRAL Model Law;
- particular features of arbitral practice in that jurisdiction;
- access to and (where available) statistics from local and regional arbitral institutions;
- significant arbitration-related national case law; and
- enforcement of foreign arbitral awards.

A sixth section focuses on Africa-based investor-State arbitration, providing an empirical analysis of the experience and record of African States with investment treaties and investor-State arbitration. Useful tables of intra-African bilateral investment treaties, a list of ICSID proceedings involving African States, and other tabular features round out the volume.
